A large group of students and teachers are posing for a group photo in front of a magnificent Gothic cathedral. The students, dressed in casual summer attire, are arranged in several rows, many with their arms raised in celebration. The teachers are interspersed among the students. The cathedral's facade is highly detailed with intricate carvings and large stained-glass windows. The scene is set on a cobblestone plaza under a clear blue sky.

Le chardonnay

Cépage champenois à peau blanche, avec un peu plus de 10 000 hectares, il est très majoritaire dans la Côte des Blancs et autour des villes de Conzy, Sézanne et Vitry-le-François. Plus précoce que les autres, il est sensible aux gélées printanières. Sur les terres blanches d'argile marquées par la craie, le chardonnay permet l'élaboration de cuvées qui se singularisent par leur minéralité, avec des arômes aux notes florales et d'agrumes. Les champagnes issus de ce cépage s'expriment en finesse et élégance. Assemblé, le chardonnay parfait la finale ; seul, il permet l'élaboration de blanc de blancs.

Chardonnay

This Champagne grape variety with white skin is predominant in the Côte des Blancs and around the towns of Conzy, Sézanne and Vitry-le-François. Maturing earlier than other varieties, it is sensitive to spring frosts. On chalky 'white' soils, Chardonnay can be used to create champagnes that stand out for their minerality, with aromas of floral and citrus. The champagnes made from this grape offer finesse and elegance. In a blend, chardonnay gives the perfect finish. On its own, it can be used to create 'blanc de blancs' champagne.

Le meunier

Second cépage champenois à peau noire, il est, avec un peu plus de 10 000 hectares, principalement implanté dans la Vallée de la Marne et la Petite Montagne. On ne le trouve pratiquement pas dans l'Aube. Vigoureux, il convient aux sols argileux, la grappe est plus compacte que celle du pinot noir avec ses grappes noires. Les champagnes issus de ce raisin, marqués fruits blancs, sont généreux. Dans l'assemblage, le meunier apporte du fruité et de la souplesse. Seul ou avec du pinot noir, il permet l'élaboration de blanc de noirs.

Meunier

This second Champagne grape variety has black skin. It is mainly grown in the Marne Valley and Petite Montagne, on just over 10,000 hectares. It is not often grown in Aube. This vigorous variety is suitable for clay soils. Its bunches, with black grapes, are more compact than those of Pinot Noir. The champagnes made from this white grape are generous. In a blend, the Meunier brings fruitiness and suppleness. Alone, or with Pinot Noir, it can be used to make 'Blanc de Noirs' champagne.
